CARLUCCIO'S ACQUIRE WIMBLEDON VILLAGE RESTAURANT THROUGH SELSIAN

December 2009

Carluccio's, the Italian restaurant and deli chain, has acquired a new site in Wimbledon Village from Say Gourmet for an undisclosed sum from an asking price of £250,000.

The company, which is led by Simon Kossoff, will rebrand the former 2,500 sq ft Say Café on the high street and expects to commence trading in February 2010.

Say Gourmet, the restaurant company founded by chef Carl Say and John Laycock, has now withdrawn from London after the recent sale of its restaurant in Battersea, leaving it with two Says Pasta sites in Bath and Bristol.

Selsian handled the deal on behalf of Say Gourmet Ltd.
